The diagram is a genealogical chart template. It features a central vertical line with a horizontal line branching to the left, representing the registration information. To the right of the central line, there are two main branches. The upper branch leads to a box for the sire, which then branches into two boxes for the sire's parents. The lower branch leads to a box for the dam, which then branches into two boxes for the dam's parents. At the bottom, there are two boxes for the offspring. The entire chart is composed of red lines and boxes, with the boxes intended for the registration and pedigree details.
