The diagram is a genealogical chart template. It features a central vertical line with a horizontal line branching to the left, representing the sire's side. To the right, there are two main vertical lines, each with a horizontal line branching to the right, representing the dam's side. These lines connect to a series of boxes for registration, sire, dam, and offspring. The boxes are arranged in a hierarchical manner, with the sire's side on the left and the dam's side on the right. The boxes are connected by red lines, forming a pedigree structure. The boxes are empty, allowing for the entry of specific data for each individual in the pedigree.
